

Centrexion Therapeutics Raises $40.5 Million and Adds Lilly and Exome Asset Management as New Investors

BOSTON, MA, October 29, 2020 – Centrexion Therapeutics Corporation, a biotechnology company focused on developing and commercializing non-opioid, non-addictive chronic pain drugs and in-licensing undervalued mid-stage drug candidates across multiple target therapeutic areas, today announced that it has raised $40.5 million of cash via:

- Convertible security investments from Lilly and Exome Asset Management – each a new investor in Centrexion;
- Collaboration-related investment from Lilly which signifies continued confidence in our joint compound (0290, an SSTR4 agonist, in Phase 2a for neuropathic, musculoskeletal and inflammatory pain); and
- Expanded lending from the existing debt facility with Solar Capital Partners, LLC

Inclusive of this $40.5 million raise, Centrexion has in excess of $75 million of cash to deploy for the continued in-licensing of drug candidates and development of its portfolio of four clinical-stage drug candidates including:

- 4975 (TRPV1 agonist) in Phase 3 for knee osteoarthritis pain
- 6970 (CCR2 antagonist) in Phase 2a for osteoarthritis pain
- 6016 (CB2 agonist) in Phase 1b/2a for diabetic neuropathy
- 0290 (SSTR4 agonist) in Phase 2a for neuropathic, musculoskeletal and inflammatory pain

In addition to the drug candidates listed above, Centrexion expects to close within the next few months on the acquisition of another mid-development stage drug candidate addressing pain.

“The investments made by Lilly, Exome and Solar strengthen our ability to advance our existing drug candidate pipeline and to leverage our deep development expertise by actively pursuing additional licensing opportunities for promising mid-stage assets across many target therapeutics areas,” said Jeff Kindler, CEO of Centrexion. “We are grateful to Lilly and Exome for becoming new investors in our Company and for Solar’s expanded support. Also, Lilly’s continued investment in the successful development of 0290 is meaningful to us, especially given Lilly’s tremendous track record developing and commercializing novel pain therapies.”

“Centrexion’s deep pipeline extends from mid-stage development to large registrational clinical trials. The additional investments will support these development efforts and, importantly, fuel more in-licensing both in and outside the pain field,” said Sol Barer, Ph.D., Chairman of the Board of Centrexion. “Also, the collaboration with Lilly has been and continues to be validation of Centrexion’s ability to identify and acquire promising drug candidates and then garner the appropriate talent and resources to bring them through development efficiently.”

“Treatment of chronic pain is poorly served and globally represents nearly a $100 billion market, and we are excited to support treatment advances to help meet this high unmet medical need,” said Sam Isaly, Founder and Managing Member of Exome Asset Management. “We are pleased to be partnering with Centrexion and its tremendously committed shareholders in this important endeavor.”
